Infantrymen See Pictures and Hear Band Concerts; Target Practice.

Free, open air moving picture shows are being given at the camp of the 20th infantry at Fort Blies each night. This is a novel feature of camplife which has been started by apt. John T. Axton, chaplain of the 20th infantry, and is proving popular with the soldiers of the regiment and is keeping many men of the 20th at camp who have been accustomed to spending their "shore leave" dewntown. The picture shows are given at the camp assembly hall where sents for too have been provided and where all of the regimental religious services and entertainments are held. In addition to the three reels of new pictures shown the 10th infantry band gives a concert three times each week at the moving picture shows, the band numbers being played between the reels of pictures. These concerts are oppular ones and many of the selections are by request of the men of the infantrymen.
